Talk to me if...

- You like coding, and developing pieces of software (v. Important!)
- You like to read about the latest developments and cool new techniques in Computer Science.
- You're the inquisitive type who likes finding the answers to questions, big or small...
- You want to help developers build more reliable software in the future!
- You're classed by the university as a “home” student

Catch me at the end of the lecture or send me an email:
